CASE STUDY

Space Description

6,000 square feet of office space on a single floor that includes a training room, private offices and an open cubicle area.

Challenge

Conversations were carrying outside of private offices and workers in the open area were becoming distracted. Additionally, people inside the training room were being distracted by conversations taking place outside.

Solution

Qt Quiet technology™ sound masking was installed throughout the space by LGI's staff. Three zones allowed for independent volume control in open plan, private offices and the training area.

Result

Sound transmission between offices was substantially reduced and LGI Energy is thrilled with their new private and productive workspace.
